Mediation

Burks ADR provides a full line of mediation services for its Practice Areas. The core mediation process focuses on good, informed decision making by the parties, primarily employing evaluative techniques and procedures. Thorough preparation, innovative processes and practicality are ingrained in each mediation.

Arbitration

Arbitration services are offered by Mr. Burks either as a panelist or as a single arbitrator. Full recognition is given to the public policy favoring arbitration, consistent with the efficiencies of arbitration versus trial court.

Conflict Management

Burks ADR offers services for managing conflicts that are outside the realm of formal mediations and arbitrations. Conflicts occur at many stages in the operations of a business, trust or government agency. Some examples are (i) disputes among members of a board of directors or committees of board members; (ii) disputes between senior management and a board of directors; (iii) disputes between a trustee and beneficiaries or trust settlor and beneficiaries; and (iv) disputes among managers or department leaders in government agencies.

Practice Areas

Burks ADR offers its dispute resolution and conflict management services for a variety of practice areas relating to business matters, personal injury, torts, contracts and class actions.
